

PROMPT 1

Write a beginner-friendly C++ program that generates random student excuses. The program should ask for the student's name. Store at least 20 excuse templates in a vector and randomly select one. Replace {name} with the user input. Ensure different excuses appear each time the program runs. Keep the code simple and well-commented

PROMPT 2

I added multiple excuses in a vector but only one is showing every time. I think random selection is not working correctly. Help me fix it and tried to run the program in a loop until user presses X.

PROMPT 3

Don't ask to continue or exit just ask the name or to exit the program.

FOCP-II-ASSIGNMENTS > Student_excuse_generator.cpp > main()

```
22     string name;
23     char choice;
24
25     // Seed random number generator
26     srand(time(0));
27
28     // Excuse templates (20+)
29     vector<string> excuses = {
30         "{name} couldn't finish the assignment because the laptop battery died.",
31         "{name} tried completing the homework, but the internet stopped working.",
32         "{name} was ready to submit when the file mysteriously disappeared.",
33         "{name} couldn't complete the work because the system crashed.",
34         "{name} was about to finish when a sudden power cut happened.",
35         "{name} couldn't type because the keyboard stopped working.",
36         "{name} tried to work but the Wi-Fi vanished suddenly "
